Tiny, minute particles revolving in a fast-moving, ever-changing mass—the atom—breaking away at times, uniting at others. A rapid surge of continual motion which is always entering new phases and reaching new obstacles.

This is also a clear description of our high school years. We are moving, changing, discovering, and observing as we travel around our nucleus, ACADEMICS. Every other activity included in our high school career revolves around this center.

We, as seniors, realize that a part of our lives will end with graduation. We will no longer be enclosed in this confined sphere, within the security of a familiar surrounding. As the atom can be split apart by an external force, sending its particles outward in many directions, so will our class be separated by our graduation in June, sending us on a new path of life, a new path of discovery.

With this in mind, we present to you the 1965 TEA LEAF.

Your editors,
Linda Porcino

EAST RUTHERFORD BOARD OF EDUCATION

Standing: Mr. Henry Hensch, Mr. August De Biase, Mr. Peter Murray, Mr. Walter W. Lampmann, Mr. Samson Ferraro, Mr. Clayton Hitchner. Sitting: Mr. Fred Minutolo, Mr. Joseph C. Schanel, Mr. Joseph Morris, Miss Marie Montello.

Boards of Education

With a steady hand
they guide our school system.

With careful planning
they prepare our academic activities.

And with sincere interest
they extend equal opportunities to all.

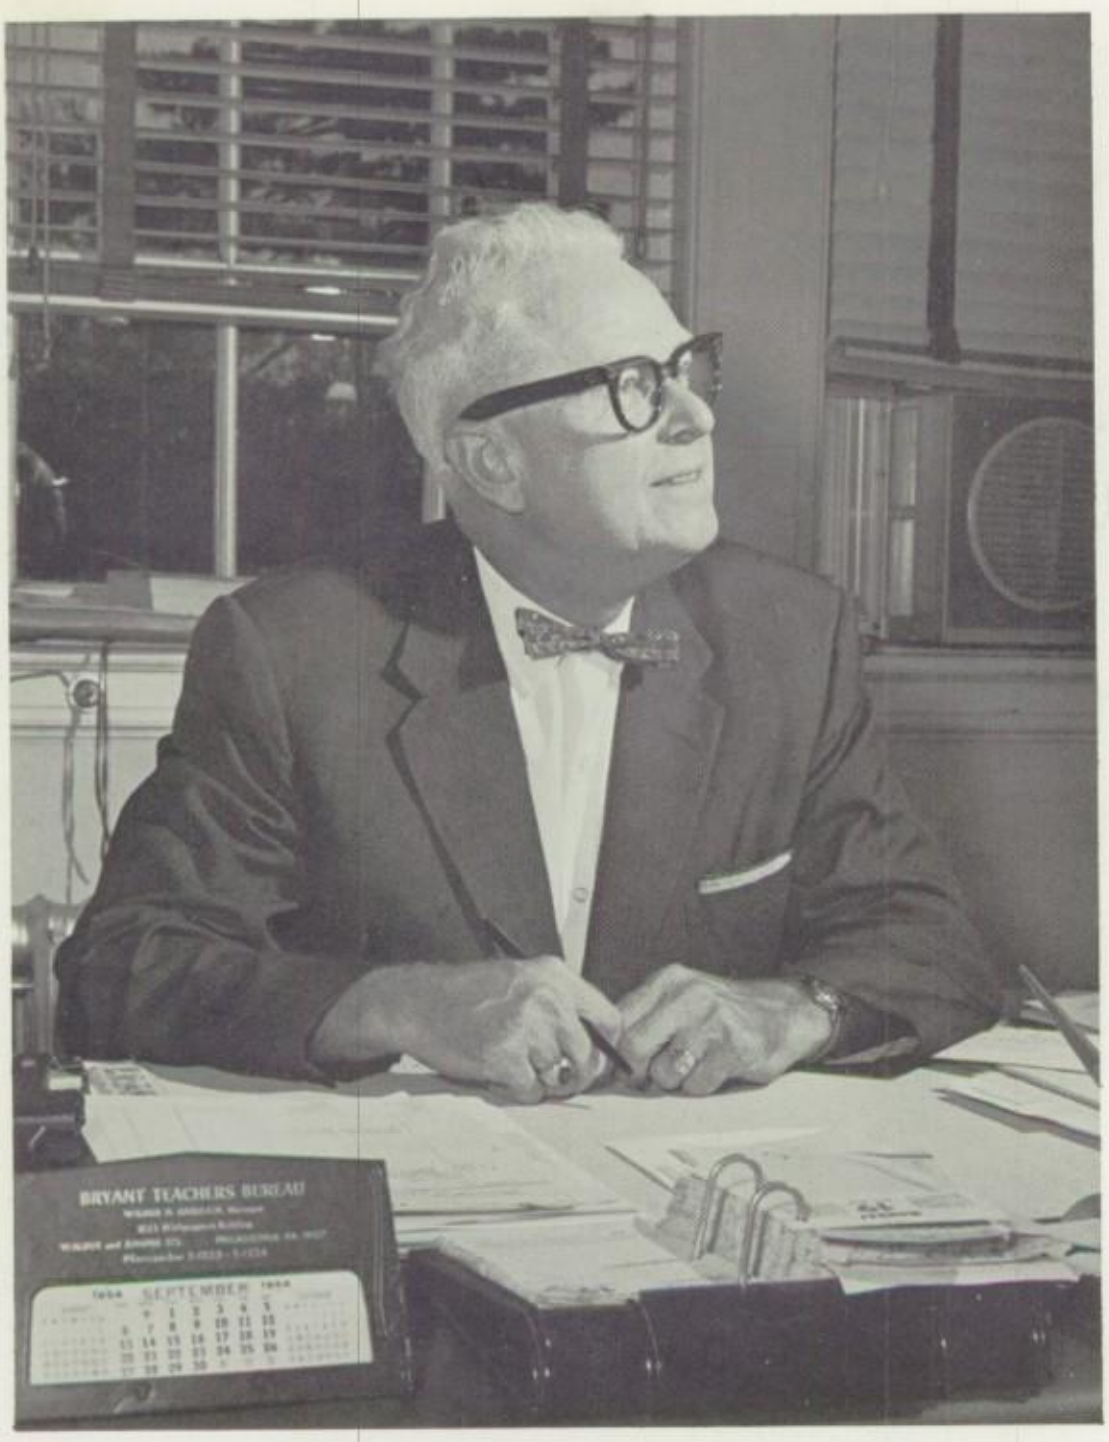
CARLSTADT BOARD OF EDUCATION

Standing: Mr. James Zimmerman, Mr. James Hadrava, Mr. Edward Rau, Mr. Robert Lahullier, Mr. John Obletiloff, Mr. Albin A. Jordan, Mr. Bernard E. Piela. Sitting: Mr. Frank Zimmerer, Mr. August Brummer, Mr. Lawrence L. Sass, Mrs. Edith Foster, Mr. Thomas J. Davis.

Superintendent of Schools



MR. CLAYTON HITCHNER

"Superintendent of Schools" is the label on an office on the first floor of the high school. This is the office that is the heart of East Rutherford's school system; it is the office of our Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Clayton Hitchner.

To serve as liason between the schools and Board of Education is Mr. Hitchner's most demanding job. Mr. Hitchner must submit to the Board recommendations concerning personnel, the budget, and anything else pertaining to school affairs. Reports on the progress and needs of the various schools must then be made to the Board of Education. After the Board has made its decisions, Mr. Hitchner must see that they are carried out.

In spite of all the time that must be spent performing executive duties, Mr. Hitchner has always found time to keep in touch with the progress of the student body by visiting the classrooms of East Rutherford High School.

MRS. MAUD SCHUESSLER
Secretary to Mr. Hitchner

Principal

MR. VINCENT ZICCARDI

Secretaries to Mr. Ziccardi: Mrs. Antoinette Porcino and Miss Patricia Connor.

The ability to organize, to lead, and to guide are traits necessary for the man who is to serve as principal of a high school. To him falls the responsibility of keeping the school an orderly and regularly functioning system.

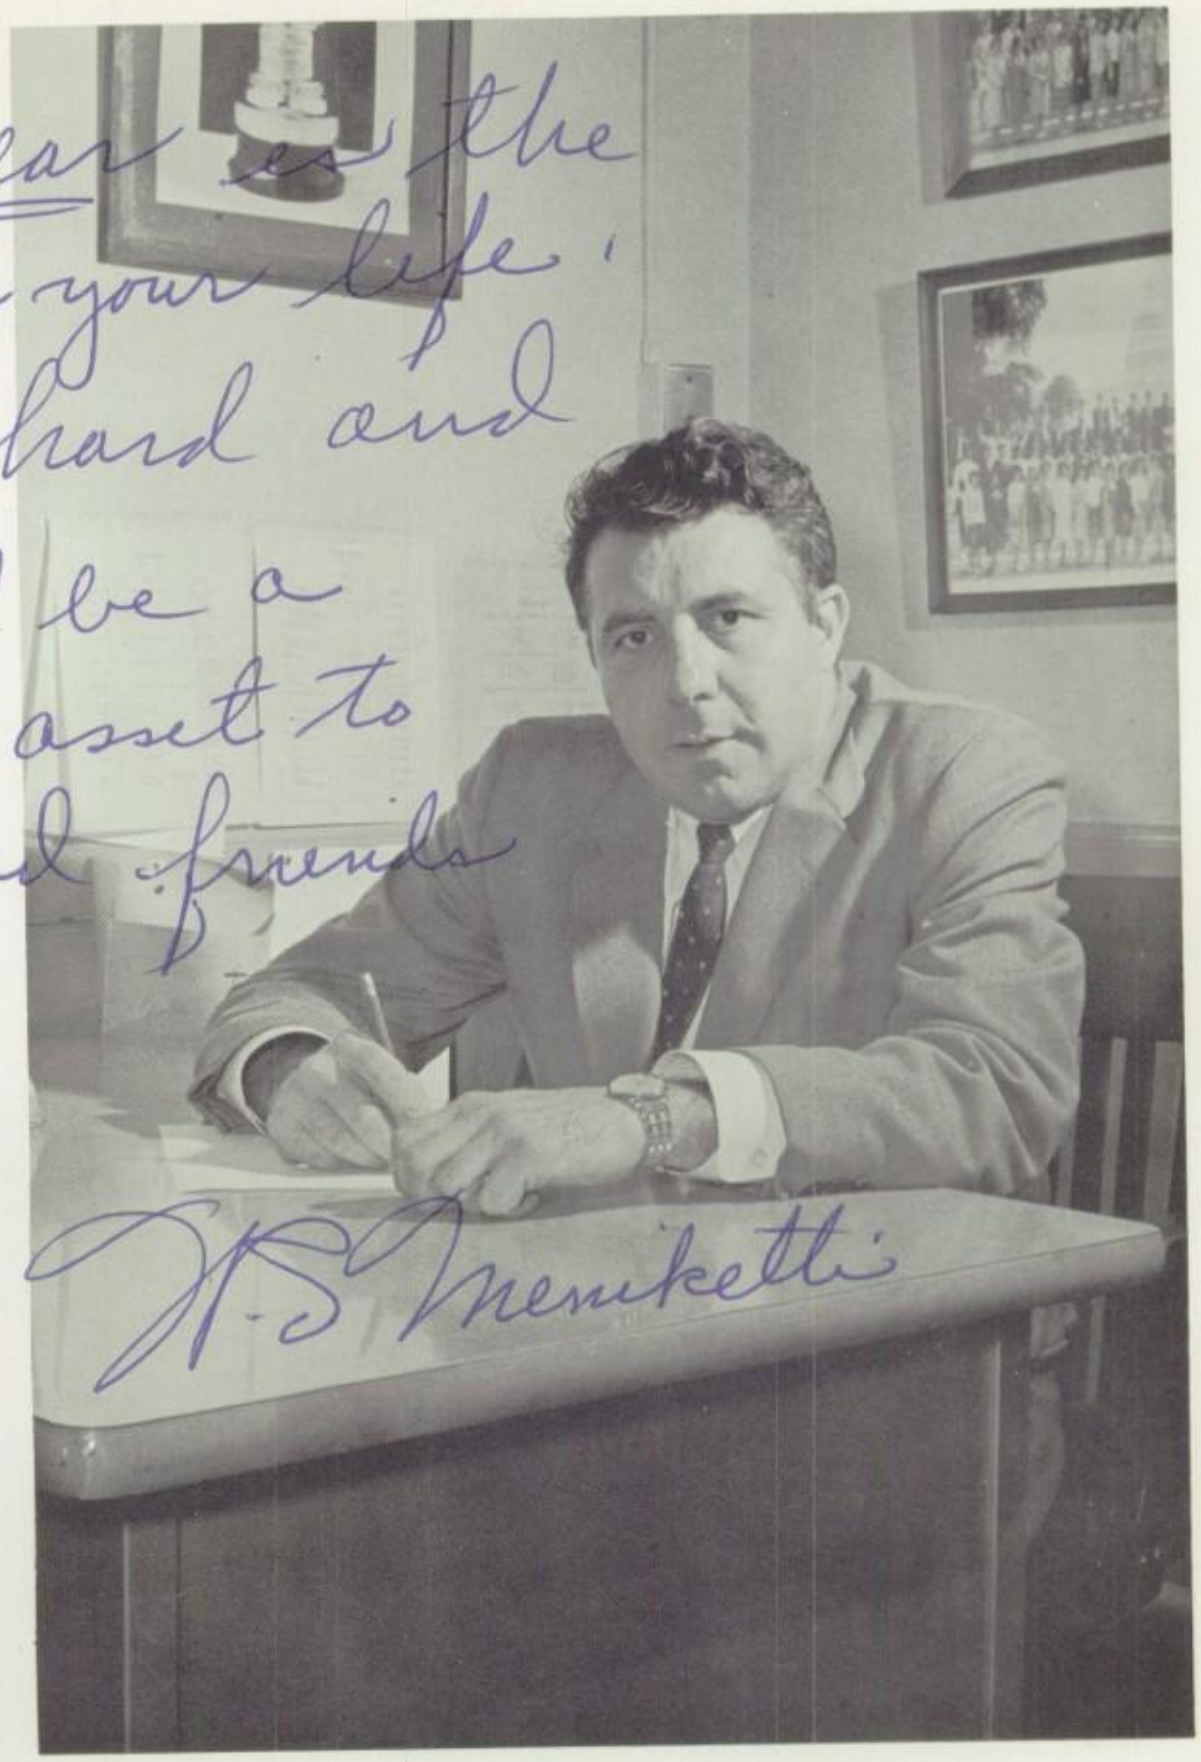
Cooperation is the watch-word for a smoothly running high school, and it is the task of the principal to see that harmony exists. It is his job to coordinate the different areas of school, from inspection of facilities to seeing that all is well in the classrooms.

Although administration and supervision of the school and its facilities are his main jobs, the principal must have some contact with his students. Thus, understanding is a necessary attribute.

The faculty, too, rely on him for helpful advice concerning curriculum and for a friendly discussion of their individual and group problems.

The principal's job is a hard one filled with much responsibility, and we can be glad we have a man in the position who is capable and well-prepared. Mr. Ziccardi has served our school well for the past five years; the Class of 1965 is the second which he has seen entirely through their high school careers. We can all be thankful for his helpful guidance and capable leadership.

Vice Principal



To Robert:
Next year is the big one in your life. Work hard and you will be a valuable asset to family and friends
W. S. Meniketti

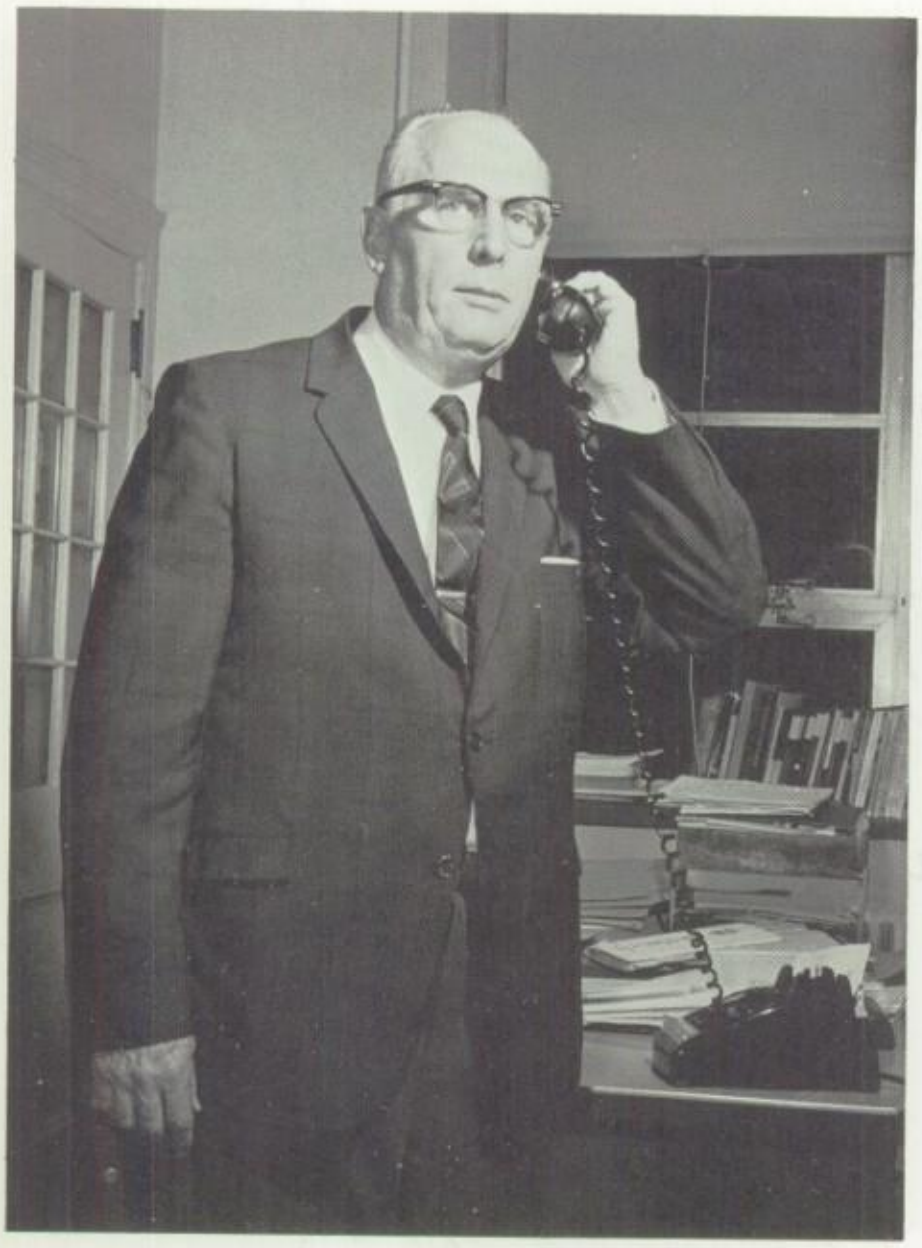
MR. WARREN MENIKETTI

Don't let it happen again!

Patience, an interest in every student, and a fine sense of humor are only a few of the fine qualities that our Vice Principal, Mr. Warren Meniketti, possesses. He is respected throughout the school for the fine and just way he handles disciplinary problems. But most of all he is a real gentleman, admired and liked by both teachers and students.

Mr. Meniketti has been teaching for twenty-two years, six of them at East Rutherford High School. He enjoys sports, all kinds of music from classical to rock n' roll, drama, and literature. He dislikes students who are late for class and do not do homework. His advice to all students is to "use all your abilities and achieve your maximum."

Guidance Department



Mr. Harry Johnson—Guidance Director

Standing: Mr. Harry Johnson, Mrs. Ruth Heitzman. Seated: Mrs. Myrtle Montgomery, Mrs. Florence Meglio, secretary to Mr. Johnson; Mrs. Leona Sears.

1965

Senior Class President

Four years have ended, four years of hard work, fun, and memorable experiences. Now, after their climax, graduation, these four years will be behind us, but the knowledge and friendships which we have amassed will remain with us, bound by an everlasting bond.

Many of us will directly enter into this huge world of complex societies; others will choose to increase the scope of their knowledge and enter another stage of preparation. Whatever the choice, these past four years will serve as the foundation. We can heartily thank our teachers, administrators, coaches, and advisors for preparing us well for the task which lies before us.

Graduation is a time of mixed emotions. The happiness of having hurdled another obstacle on the way to our goal and the sadness of having to part from friends are both part of graduation. Wherever our fortunes lead us and however far from each other we may be, we will always have the memories of our four years at East Rutherford High.

In parting, I would like to thank the entire Class of 1965 for selecting me to be its chief representative, an honor which I deeply appreciate and never will forget. May I wish each and every member of the class the very best of luck for the future, and may God bless you.

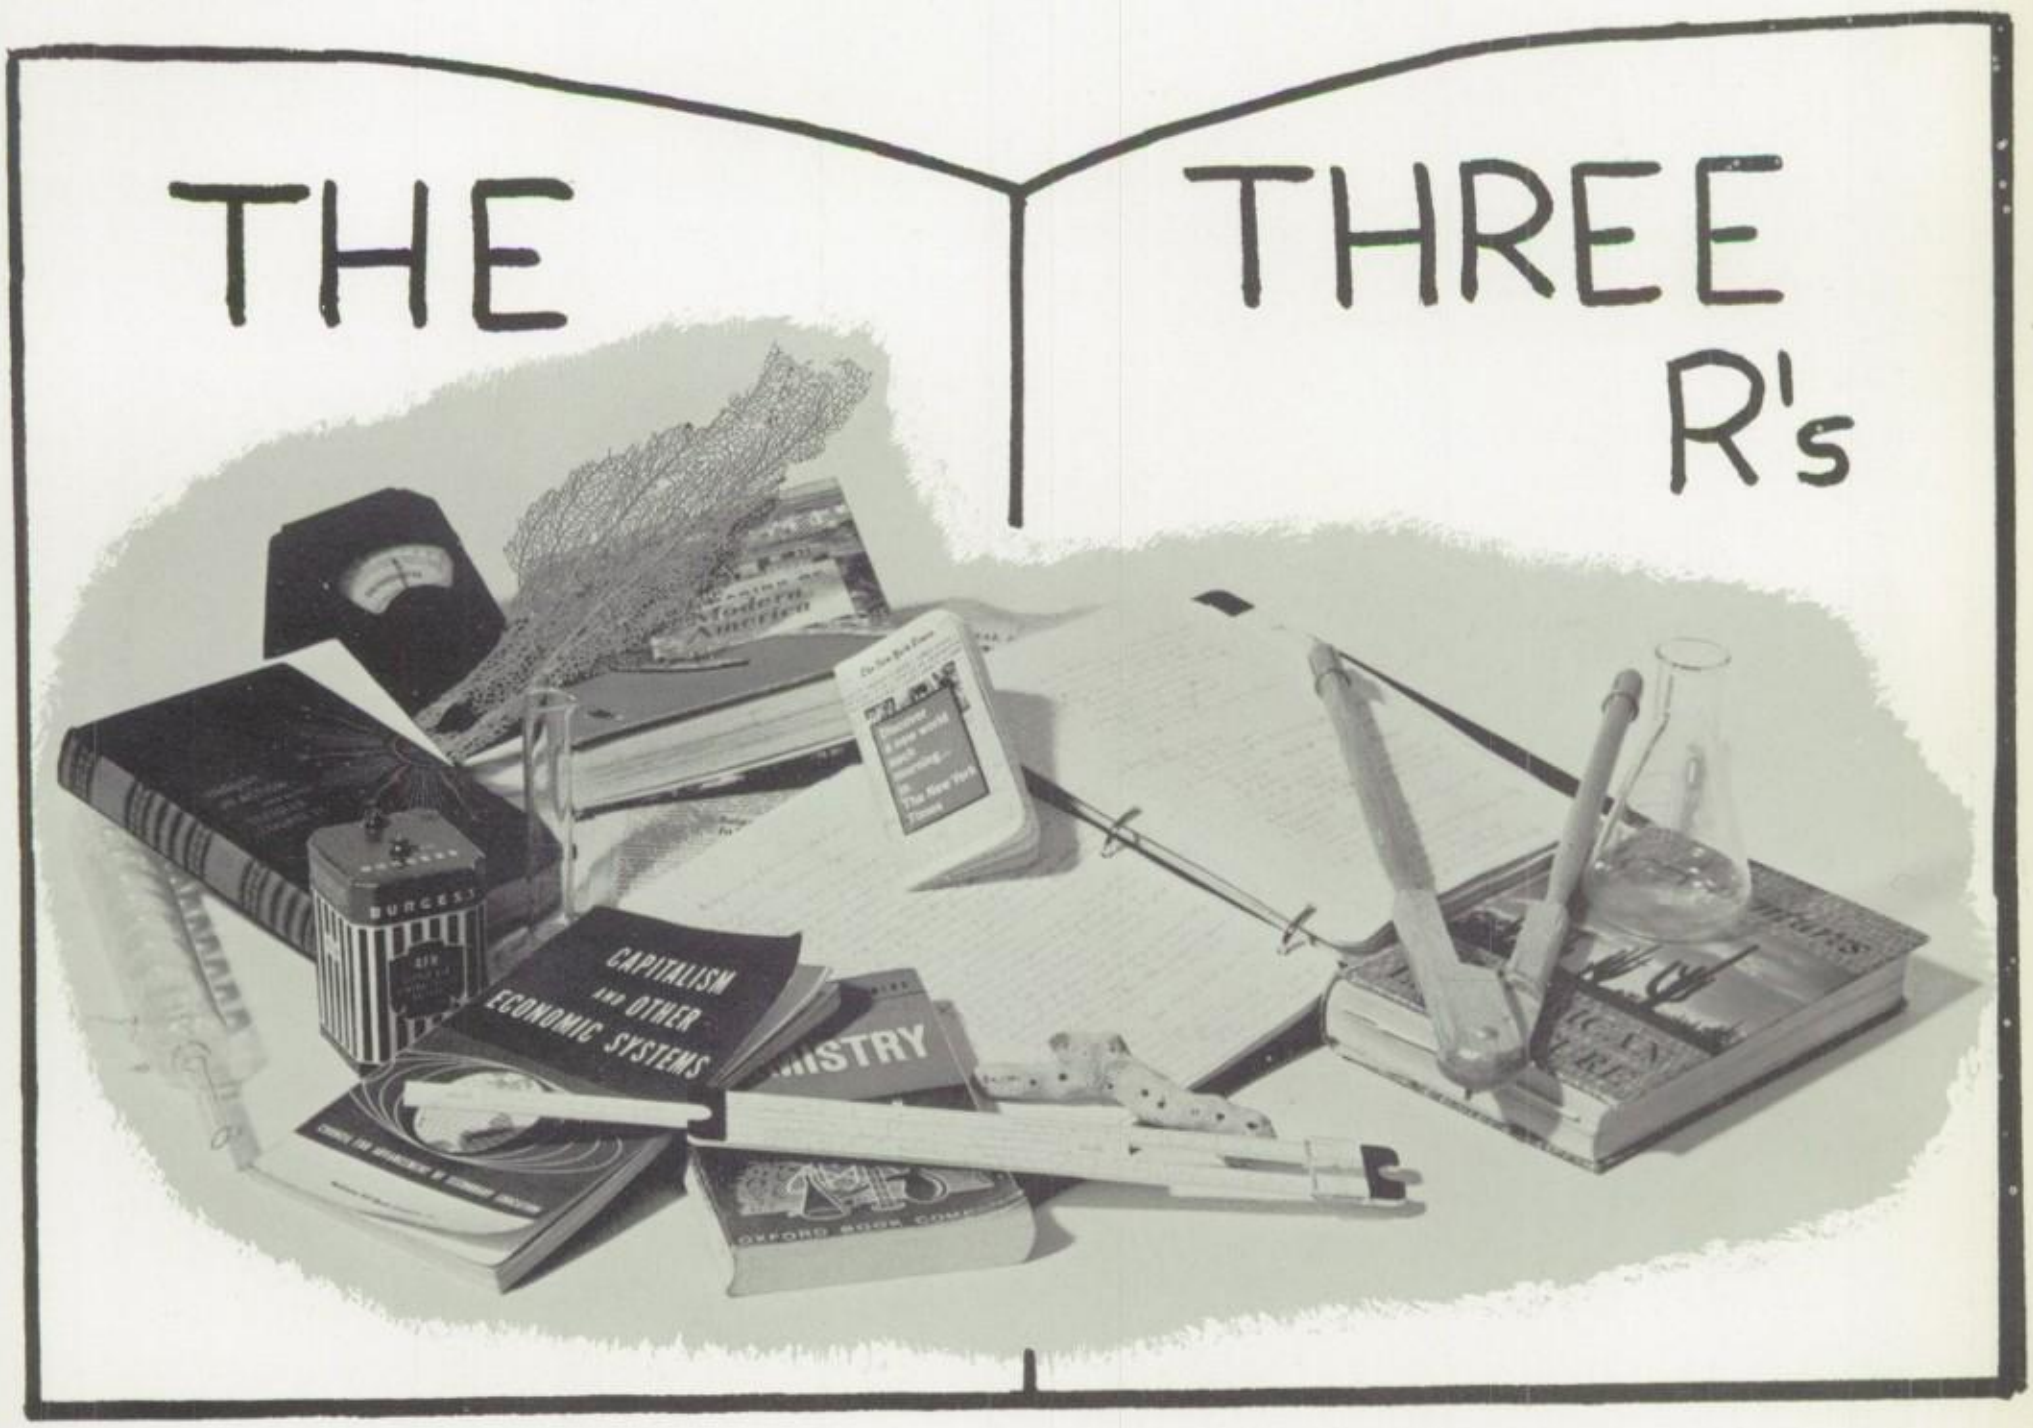
ACADEMICS

Ole, (I mean Bobby)
I want to wish you all the luck in the world but you desave much more than that. May you succeed in any of your attempts.
I'll always remember you as a great friend. Remember all the riots and panics we had in 4th pa. study.
Have fun next yr. as a senior.
May the Lord Bless You!
A friend always,
Lynn

Bobby,

I wish you all the success and happiness in the world. You a great kid so never change. I wish you all the luck in school cause you know everybody needs it. May God Bless you and keep you safe.

Love
Chris



ENGLISH

One of the surest marks of an educated person is his correct use and knowledge of his native tongue. Likewise, a lack of skill in this area may cost a person a job or a favorable impression.

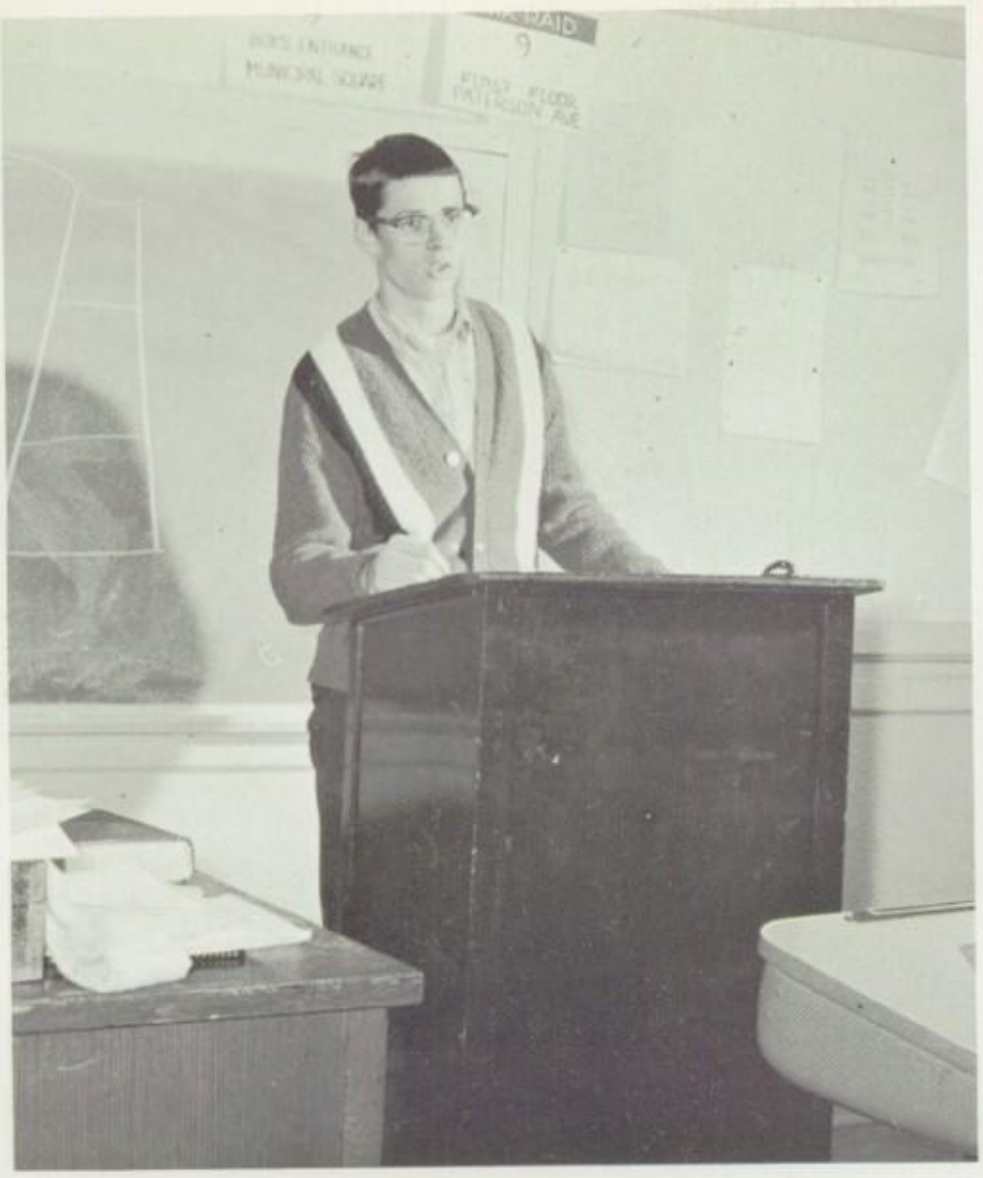
With this in mind, the English Department sets out to prepare students with a sound knowledge of the workings and grammar of our language, as well as the historical and all-important literary aspects of it.

Composition, vocabulary, proper word usage, and sentence structure are stressed, and assignments are given to test the students' own aptitude at creative writing.

In the junior year, the emphasis is on English literature, which is traced from Beowulf to John Masefield. In this way, a comprehensive picture is given of the developments in style up to modern times. The curriculum for seniors traces American literature, providing new insights into political events which shaped our country. A term paper, complete with footnotes, serves as both practice for college-bound students and a means of gathering independent information of interest to the student.

An important branch of English is the Speech Department. Here the students learn how to speak before a group, either in class or at an assembly. In class debates, skits, and speech reading, self-confidence is gained and proper voice tone and ennunciation become habits.

In these many ways, the English courses do much to producing well-read, articulate students.



Ole,
Best of luck
always to a wonderful
guy. May success
be with you always.
Love,
Pat

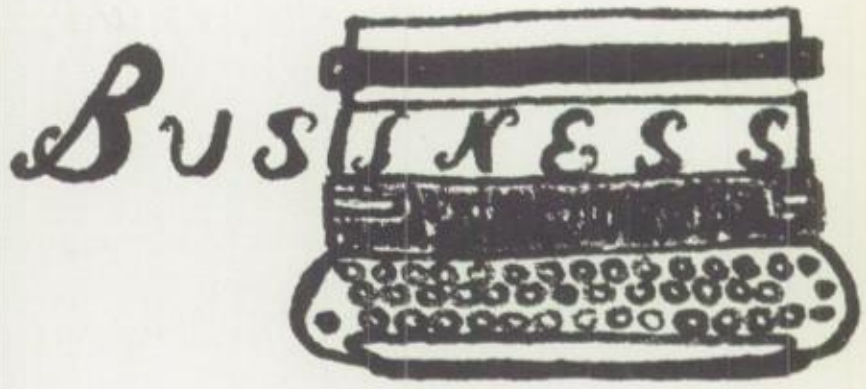
SOCIAL STUDIES

Understanding of the future is attained through knowledge of the past and present. Knowledge of the past can only be secured through the study of the chronicles of man, the books and documents that he has left us. Past events and the history being made today are both equally important. As a student learns in citizenship, world history, and United States history classes, he sees that events, people, and places combine in one great story of civilization.

To help us gain a fuller and richer knowledge of this understanding, the Social Studies Department emphasizes complete and accurate knowledge of events. Studying the role played by America in foreign affairs helps the student to see where America stands in the world today. A comparison of the American political and economic system with that of the Communist world allows us to build a strong defense against false propaganda. A full knowledge of Communism and its principles is needed if we ever hope to combat this growing menace. By reading and debating, the student can express his own opinion, and is therefore given an opportunity to use his storehouse of knowledge.

The heritage of our nation is dependent on an appreciation for, and an understanding of, the principles on which our nation was founded. To keep it a strong and true republic will be the responsibility of those who are now students. The students will read; forgetting some, retaining some. That which is retained will someday be put to use, possibly to better our country, or even the world.

When the knowledge of both the past and present is deeply secured within man, the doors of the future open, and as they open, the power of man is increased.



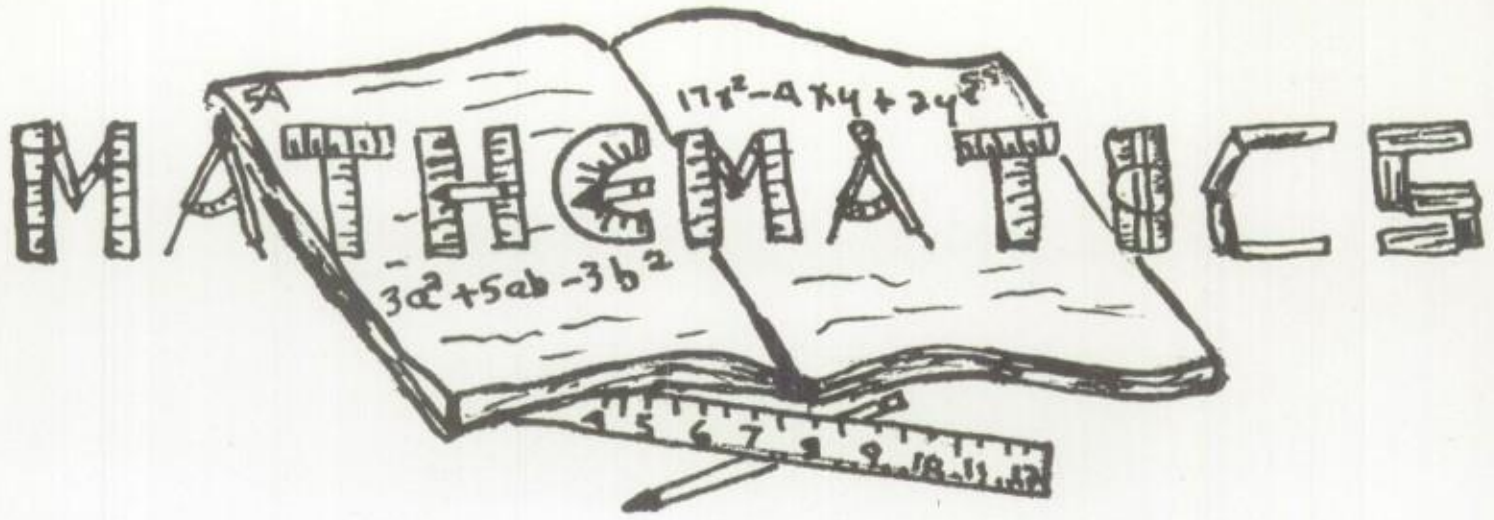
BUSINESS

There are many opportunities open to capable workers in today's business world. The demand for skilled office employees is steadily growing. To meet the increased demand and competition, our school is continually broadening its scope in business training.

The East Rutherford High School Business Department offers courses in bookkeeping, stenography, typing, merchandising, and various other business fields. All equipment and techniques are kept up-to-date. The students are taught each new method as it comes into use. In this way, they are taught to adapt to the rapidly changing machines and techniques of the modern business world.

From the Freshman year, the students are taught subjects which ultimately lead to Office Practice. In this class a student must use all previously learned skills in order to complete various office jobs, which use both mechanical and manual skills.

All business classrooms are run as offices. Students must be accurate, efficient, punctual, and independent. If a student develops these qualities in addition to conscientiously preparing his lessons, he can be reasonably assured of success in the business field.



MATHEMATICS

Mathematics is the golden key to practically all sciences. It is amazing to think how this science advanced. It was first used by primitive man who added by counting on his fingers. Mathematical organization of elementary geometry was achieved by Euclid in 300 B.C. During the sixteenth century the symbolism of algebra, the use of trigonometric ratios, and the ideas of logarithms were developed. The calculus was discovered in the seventeenth century. At the present time, new discoveries are being made constantly. Through the application of these newly learned principles of mathematics, we are obtaining an ever-widening knowledge of the universe.

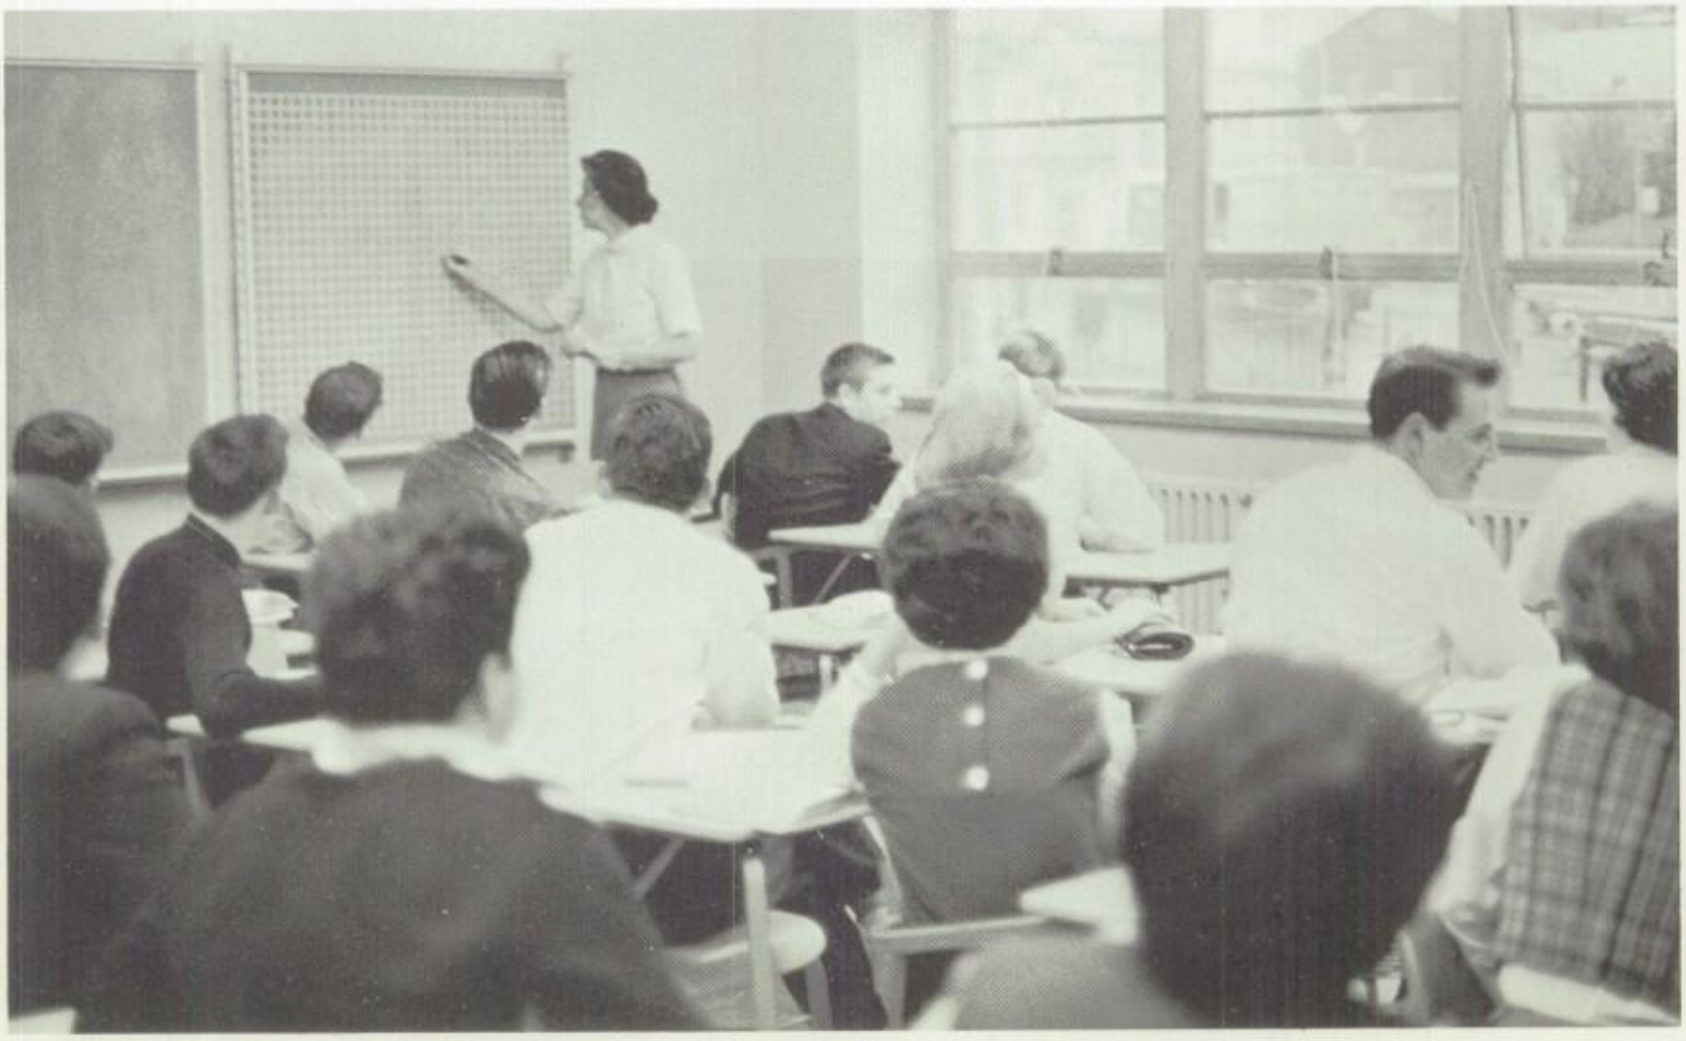
Today, a knowledge of the basic principles of math is necessary in many areas of life — whether it be the housewife trying to figure out her income tax payment, the successful accountant of a large business firm balancing books or the college math professor teaching the New Math to his students.

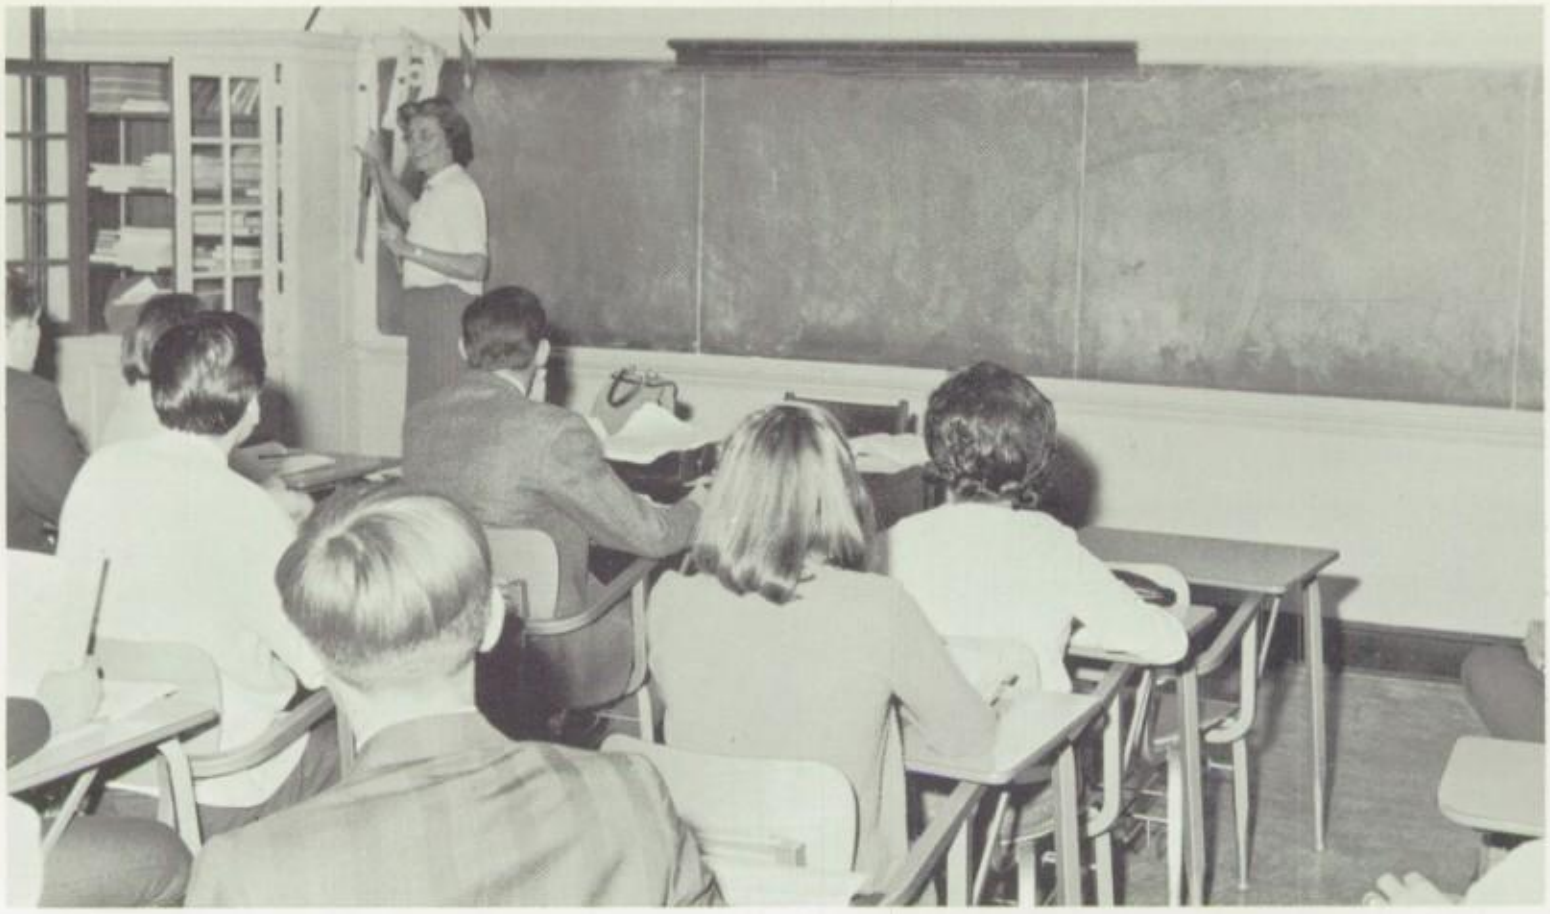
Our mathematics department meets the demands of today's society by providing a wide range of courses which the students may pursue. General math and business arithmetic are offered for those who will enter the business field. For the college bound, elementary and intermediate algebra and plane geometry are offered, in addition to advanced math, which includes trigonometry, solid geometry, and differential calculus.

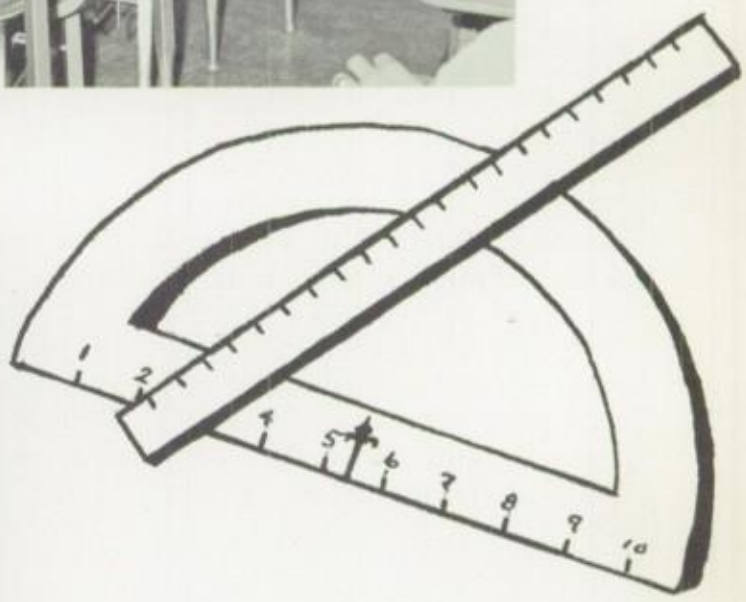
After an East Rutherford High School student has taken four years of college preparatory mathematics he will have learned about the unit circle and lines and planes, as well as how to perform operations with sets, to plot cartesian co-ordinates and to construct various geometric figures.

This year, several students were also able to enter mathematics competitions with other schools in the area.

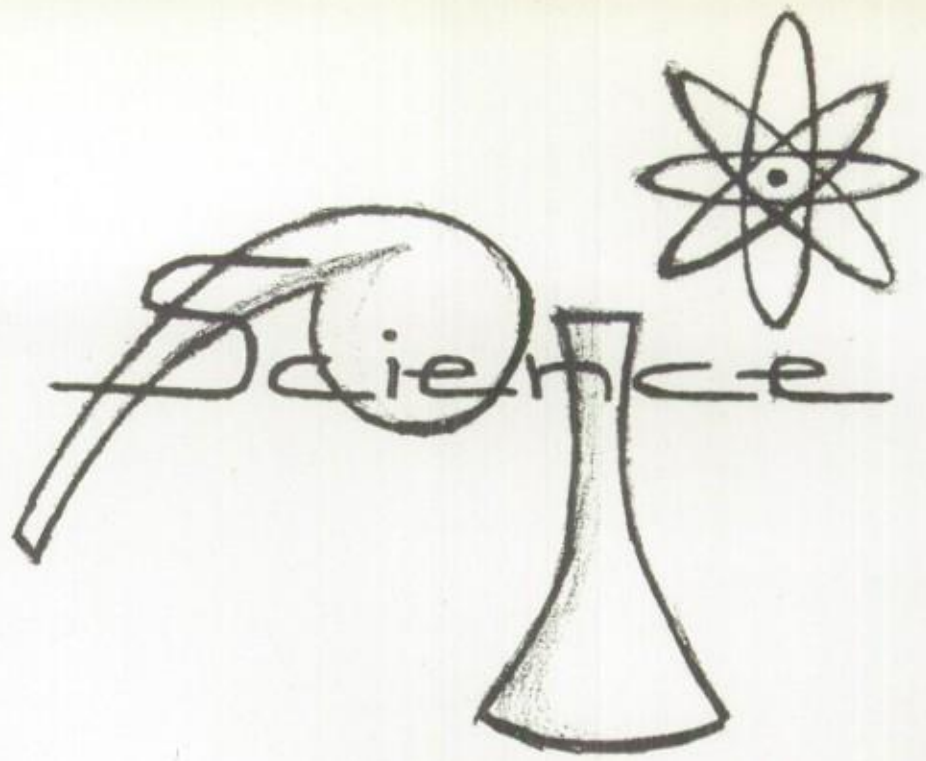
With this fine background, it is not surprising to learn that many of our students are continuing their studies in mathematics and pursuing careers in this field.







$$c = \sqrt{a^2 + b^2}$$



SCIENCE

Science — the organized study of a subject. What is it at East Rutherford? In this world of science, what role does our Alma Mater party? A trip to the third floor will reveal our fine science department with its various areas of study.

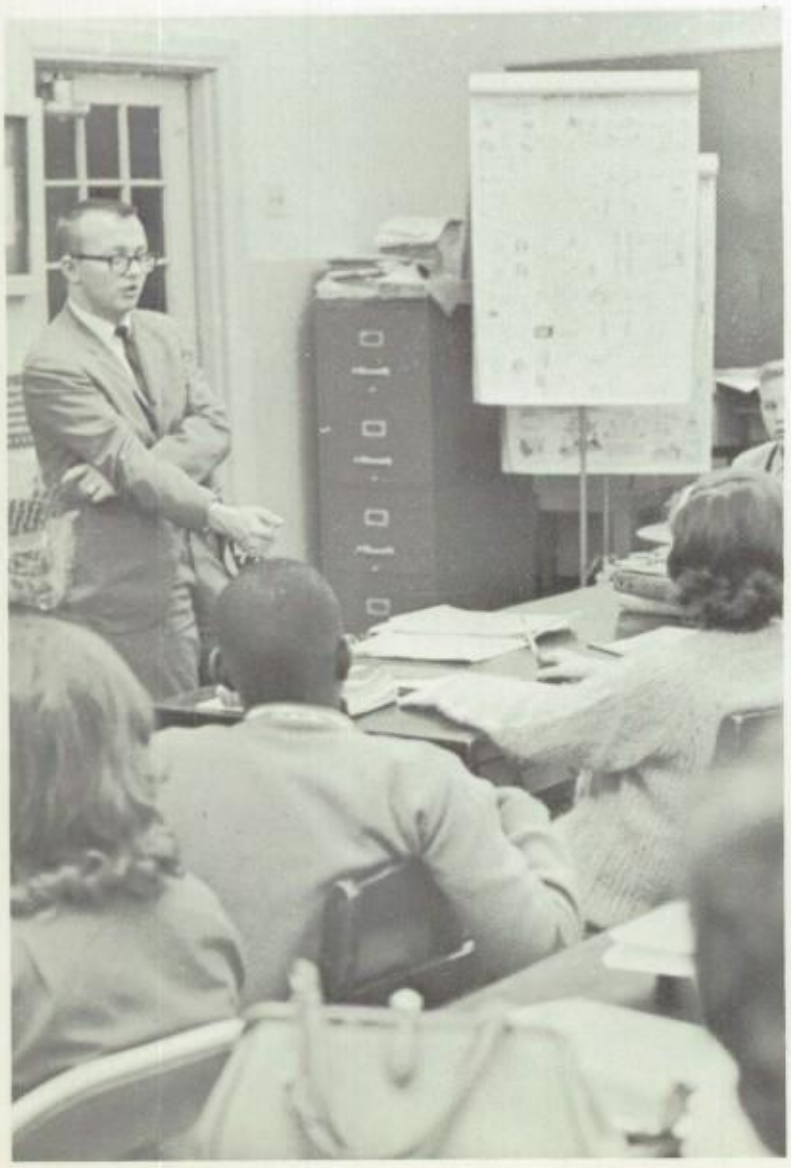
For the novice, the General Science course is an introduction to all the sciences. It explores the different common sciences: physics, botany, zoology, and chemistry. A student leaving our General Science course is well equipped with a wide knowledge of varied sciences.

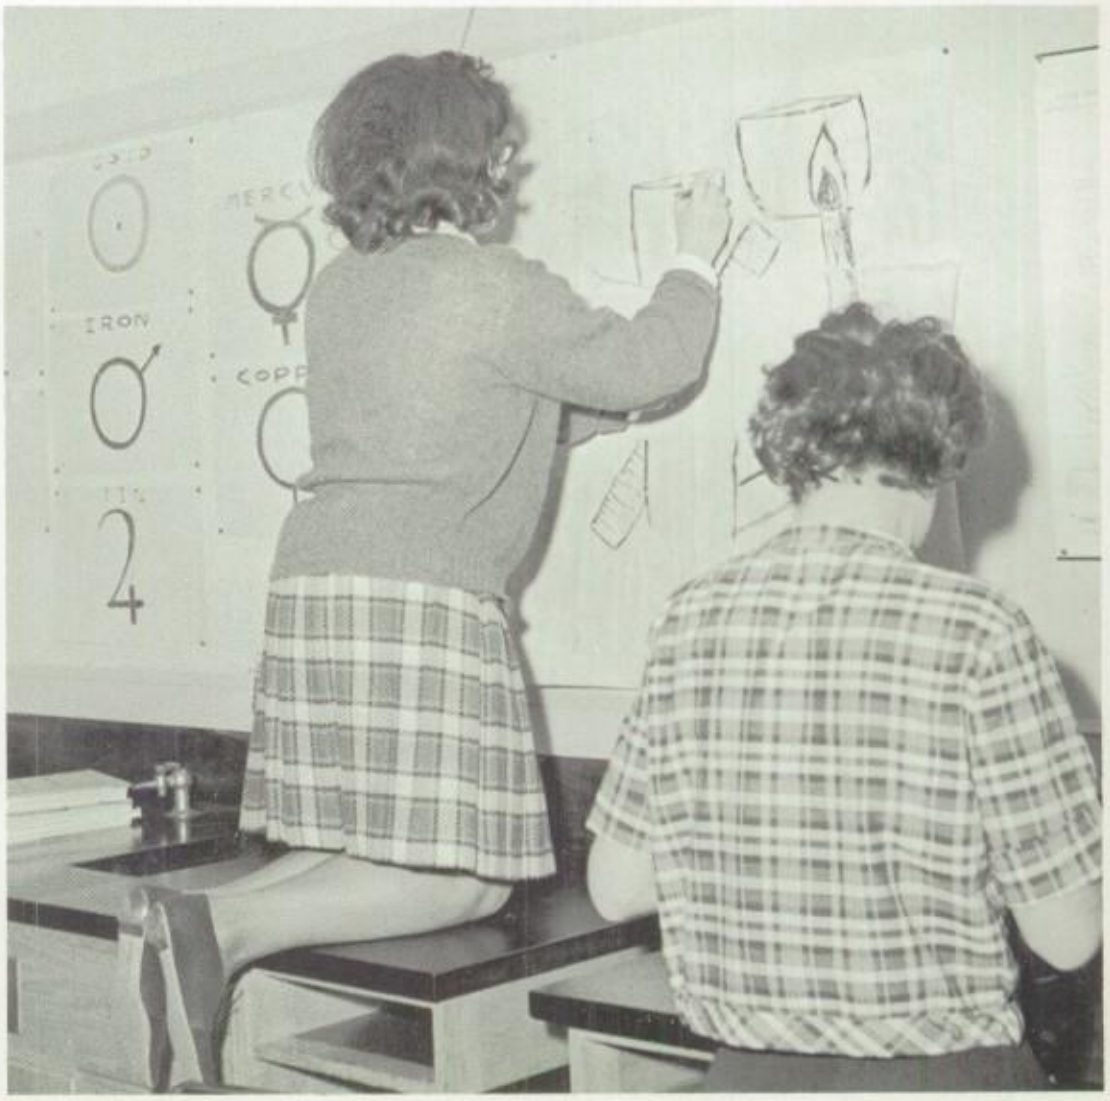
Biology is the next science studied. It is the science of life, and in that respect may be considered the most important. From the study of simple protozoans to complex organisms, biology is extremely important and interesting.

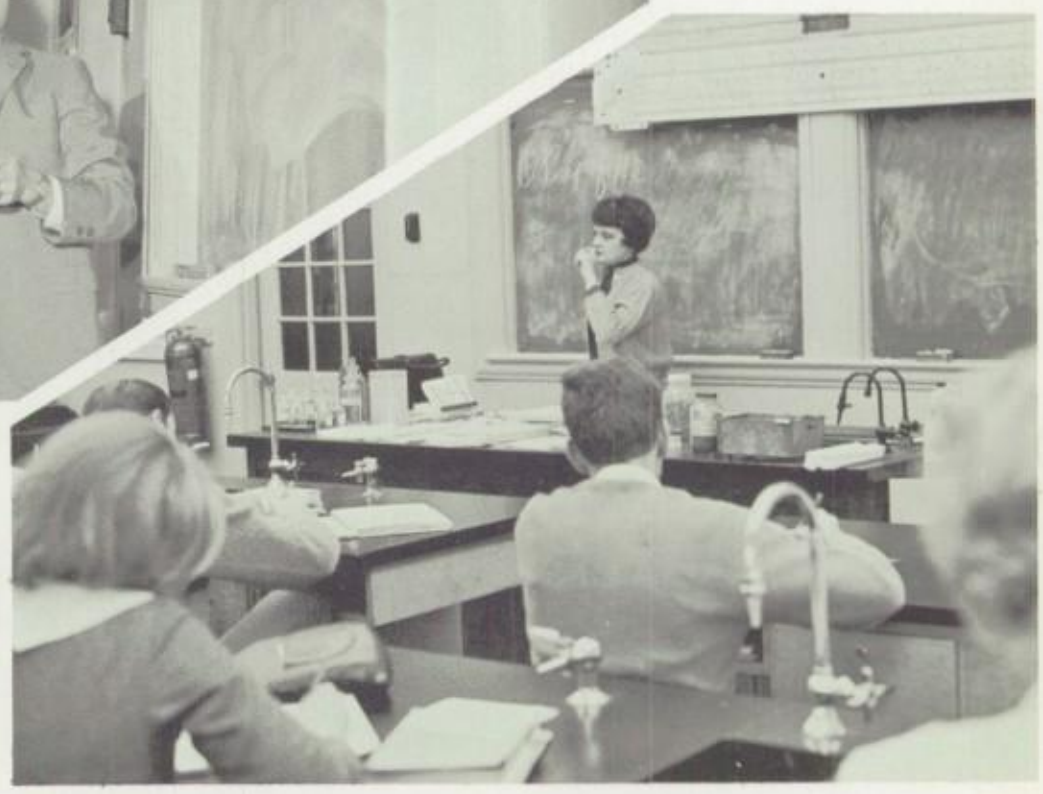
Light, heat, energy, motion, electricity, and atomic energy are all part of physics. In a physics class, the student learns all about the physical world and the way it acts. Closely connected with math, physics is the first analytical science a student takes in East Rutherford High School. Upon leaving this class, the student is very familiar with the subject and well prepared for future studies in science.

Chemistry studies the composition of matter. Chemistry students learn how to break down substances and how to put chemicals together to create them. Through trial and error, chemistry is well learned. Loud explosions and unpleasant odors on the third floor are usually the result of a satisfactory experiment.

In the hands of our science department rests the future of many of our students. At the rate we are moving, it is essential to have a knowledge of science to exist in this world, and our science department is furnishing this knowledge to prepare us for the future.







ARTS

"Art," says Webster, "is skill in performance, acquired by experience, study, or observation." Art is different things to different people. To a musician it is the beauty of Beethoven's fifth symphony; to an art enthusiast it is the delicacy of Da Vinci's "Last Supper." Add to skill a little individual ingenuity; that's art.

The arts have a special place in high school, for it is at this time when minds are being formed; it is at this time when minds can be cultivated.

The arts are hardly neglected in East Rutherford High School where students' endeavors in the fields of art and music are often displayed.

Art work can be seen on the bulletin boards of the main floor. Peek into Room 11 any period of the day and you can see the students hard at work creating a work of art.

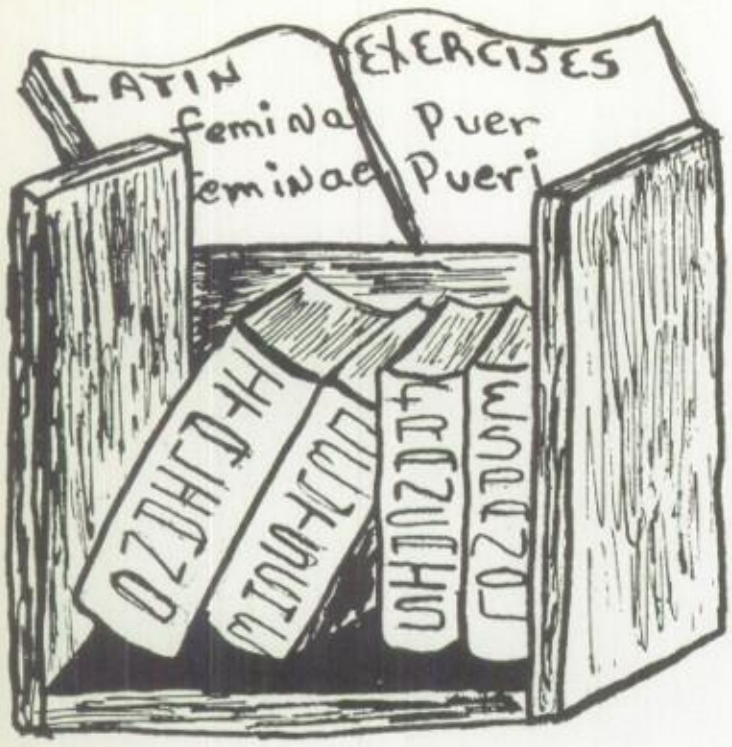
The music department gives much in the way of art to our school. This department aids in assemblies, in public programs, and are a spirited group at the football games. The glee club has been a credit to our school and has been highly praised for its part in our assemblies.

Music appreciation offers to the student a chance to become acquainted with the wider worlds of music, and many days you can walk past the music room and see the students intently listening to Verdi, Schubert, Gilbert and Sullivan, or any other great musician.

But music and art are not the only aspects of a growing character stressed in our alma mater. Talents in the cooking class and skill in the sewing class are mastered through conscientious practice and capable instruction. As we walk through the second floor hall, delicious odors spill forth from the cooking room, and beautiful articles of clothing are proudly worn by the dressmakers.

Also, of equal importance, is our manual training program. Whether for enjoyment alone, or as training for a future occupation, shop classes teach the male students at East Rutherford High School manual dexterity and skill. Working both in wood and metal these students demonstrate tremendous ability in creating useful objects with their hands.

All of these help cultivate a person's appreciation for the better things in life, and we can take pride in the fact that in East Rutherford High School the arts hold an important and esteemed position.



LANGUAGE

In this jet age, with Europe just a few hours away by plane, it is of vital importance that all people become acquainted with a foreign language.

Our language department offers a variety of languages: Latin, the universal language of medicine; German, the principal language of science; Italian, the resonant language of the opera; French, the exciting language of romance; and Spanish, the gay language of festivals.

Students are taught the basic principles of grammar and learn to be fluent in their chosen languages by actual speech. Also available to them are such mechanical devices as tape recorders and a portable language laboratory. Students also become acquainted with the basic customs and traditions of the country whose language they are studying.

The language department is a vital factor in familiarizing students with the complexities of our modern world.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

While the rest of the school busies itself with the important task of developing a student's mind, the Physical Education Department is equally concerned with developing the power of the body.

This year the school administration has decided to put a greater stress on this part of education. For this most important job they have picked an experienced and capable leader, Mr. William Eigenrauch. As head of the Physical Education department, Mr. Eigenrauch has worked tirelessly to get the best possible program for mental alertness and good health.

Behind every successful organization there is a small, but extremely important group of planners, who not only helps make the rules, but sees that they are successfully applied.

In East Rutherford High School this select group is known as the Student Council. It begins its work on the first day of each school year, guiding freshmen to their new classes, thus saving them from becoming hopelessly lost in a maze of halls and room numbers.

This work, started so early in the year, is continued each and every day. Members help in planning assemblies, decorating the Christmas tree, distributing Christmas cards, arranging the faculty basketball game, and helping the administration in any way they are asked.

Through hard work and dedication to principles of good school government, the Student Council has made our school one of which we are proud.

TEA LEAF CO-EDITORS AND ADVISOR
Linda Porcino, Miss B. Hollenbeck, Susan Wasko.

With a great responsibility resting squarely on its shoulders, and a short time in which to do it, this year's Tea Leaf Staff has handled the job of producing a fine yearbook with the utmost of care. Diligently working long hours after school, the staff members have proven themselves to be a hard-working and dedicated group.

Arranging for the taking of pictures, procuring ads from the local merchants, writing articles, and arranging these in the yearbook is a long and time consuming job. Under the capable leadership of the co-editors, Susan Wasko and Linda Porcino, the staff has been pushed to new heights in quality performance.

A school newspaper must do more than keep students briefed on activities, sports, and outstanding personalities; it must also go beyond providing entertainment to its readers. At any time, a stranger may glance through a Triangle, and what he sees reflected there goes a long way in determining his opinion of the school as a whole. Therefore the general attitude of the students, and where the emphasis is placed by those who attend it, whether on academic or extra-curricular pursuits, must come through clearly if the paper is to give a true picture of the high school. This, as all editors of newpapers know, is not easy.

By a careful choice of articles, ranging from an interview with a race-car driver to an explanation of what a "Group Two" school is, a balance is maintained between subjects dealing purely with the school and those which have only an indirect effect upon the students. There are fashions, book reviews, and poetry for the girls, sports and the latest car news for the boys, information on upcoming activities, faculty changes, and colleges for all.

By trying to increase circulation and raise the quality of writing, this year's editors have made their contribution to the improvement of the Triangle.

Students who have displayed character, leadership and responsibility as well as excellence in their studies are rewarded by induction into the National Honor Society in the spring of their junior and senior year.

Eligibility for membership is primarily based on students' grades — a continued 85% average is the first prerequisite; and of this group, only 5% of the junior and 10% of the senior class are granted admission to the honorary society. Students meeting the academic requirements are asked to list their extra-curricular activities, and the faculty then selects those to be inducted by such character traits as leadership, reliability, attitude and general demeanor, as well as success in their studies.

At an upperclass assembly in the spring, the proud new members are given certificates of admission into the Society, and parents are invited to attend this memorable ceremony.

International Honorary Society for High School Journalists — the official name of the Quill and Scroll. Our chapter of the Quill and Scroll, the Eta Rho Chapter, was organized in 1939 under the leadership of its present advisor, Miss Zimmerman.

This organization strives to lift the journalistic standards of the students and to provide experience in the various literary fields.

Juniors and seniors who show superior journalistic ability and who are of good scholarship and exceptional character are eligible for membership in this organization, whose purpose is to encourage and reward individual student achievement.

The club has undertaken the job of raising money for the Cerebral Palsy Fund and the hospital ship, U.S.S. Hope. The club raised money by sponsoring a dance, car wash, and selling candy.

The Key Club is under the able guidance of Mr. W. Siri, aided by president Noel Shablick and the other officers, John Bodnar, Gasper Ferraro, and Robert Iomazzo.

The Keyette Club, sister to the Key Club, is one of our schools best known service clubs. Its goals are to be charitable to the less fortunate and to interest the girls of our school in different vocational fields. The Keyettes have been very successful in carrying out their plans.

The Keyettes' first act of charity was the preparation of two enormous Thanksgiving baskets for needy families. They gave of themselves again when they collected for the Muscular Dystrophy fund.

In the vocational field, Mrs. Siebelist of Drake College and Mrs. Bean from the Laboratory Institute of Merchandising came to speak to the Keyettes. The girls were very appreciative of these informative lectures.

The enthusiasm of the girls and their advisor, Mrs. Van Kirk, has resulted in a very prosperous and rewarding year.

The purpose of the Cadet Teachers is to give students interested in a career as a teacher an insight into the teaching profession. Guest speakers talk to the students and tell about the various fields in teaching which they may enter. Many of the student teachers practicing in East Rutherford High School relate their experiences and tell about the courses they take. These talks have proven to be quite informative.

The Cadet Teachers visited Paterson State College in the autumn. They were taken on a tour of the campus and learned of the various curricula. Trips such as this help decide which college they might like to attend.

Senior members in the Cadet Teachers get an opportunity to teach in the elementary schools under the supervision of the class teacher. This experience further aids their decision as to which grade they would like to teach and which subjects will prove to be their main interest.

Two of their annual affairs are a dance and a teacher's cake sale. All of the members combine their energy to make each a huge success.

This club is composed of girls who wish to have a career in helping others. The girls gain their first true look into the nursing field through the visits the club makes to various hospitals. Many of the girls receive advanced training by volunteering their services in neighboring hospitals. Also members of the club work hard in the nurse's office during their free periods throughout the day. Another important function the girls perform is to assist in any of the school health activities during the year.

Active participation in this club helps the girls prepare themselves for their nursing role.

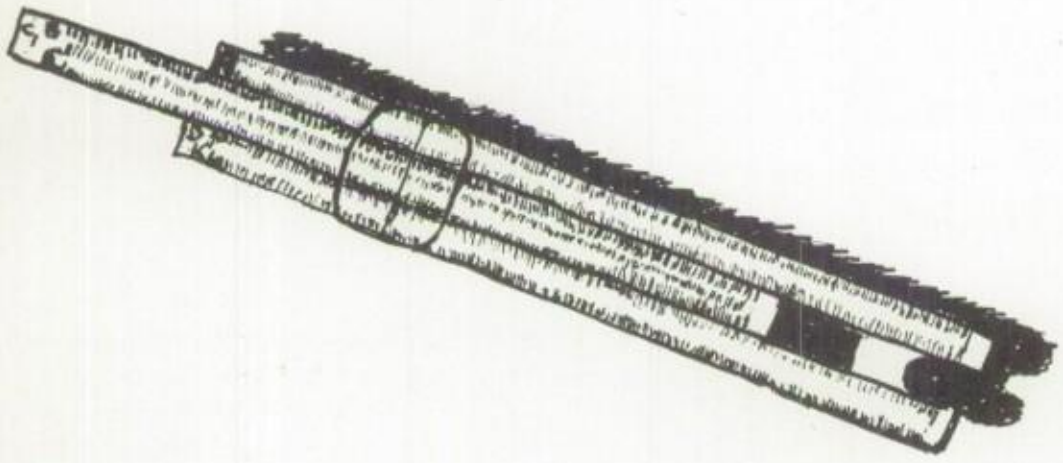
Under the capable supervision of the chemistry instructor, Mrs. Foytlin, along with the cooperation of the officers: Bill Hippler, president; Charles Hollenbeck, vice president; Edward Errico, secretary; Joe Gadda, treasurer, the Science Club has attempted this year to be a true credit to the school.

As many of the members as possible were asked to present a short program at one of the meetings to show how science is used in today's highly technical world. By performing experiments and observing demonstrations, members can explore basic scientific principles which they have previously studied in their classes.

Films, speakers, discussions, and a trip added to the members' knowledge of the increasingly important field of science. Talks were given on topology, quicksand, heart operations, mescaline, and many other unusual topics.



Math Club

The Math Club, under the capable guidance of Miss Sudovar has done a great job in acquainting its members with the realm of numbers. The members come to realize just how helpful this knowledge is when they take their College Board exams. One purpose of the club is to teach new methods of mathematics and advanced math to the members. Of major importance is the Math Club's work in preparing its members for college.

In this busy and progressive era, language and customs are being brought into direct focus. Students have learned that language is the best means of communication. Each additional language a person learns is a stepping stone to helping and understanding other peoples.

The Language Club members not only learn about other peoples and lands from lectures, but also from colorful slides. At the Christmas party, the Spanish III class entertained this club with humorous Spanish skits. Entertainment for the next following months was presented by French, German, and Italian students. In this way, the members are afforded additional opportunities to capture the spell of the language.

Library Staff

Back Row: E. Morelli, T. Cole, S. Weiler, Mr. Bomberger, M. LaDuca, J. Gordon, B. Wintjen, R. Pfeiffer. Front Row: S. Wright, C. Schopper, D. Wilk, G. Volpe, D. Allred.

The librarian's job is one of great responsibility. In order to keep the library functioning properly, he must have the aid and cooperation of students. The students who assist him are members of the library staff. They give unselfishly of their time in order to mend torn books, keep magazines in order, keep books in their proper positions on the shelves, and in general, keep the library in top shape. Although their hard work goes unnoticed by the average student, they may take pride in the fact that they are a vital part of the school system.

Glee Club

This year the East Rutherford High School Glee Club is under the very capable supervision of Mr. Irwin Sachais. The talented 29 young ladies perform at many assemblies. At Thanksgiving we can hear them sing beautiful hymns, and at Christmas time they present us with a large selection of popular Christmas carols.

Through hard work and practice, the Glee Club added their beautiful selections to the Annual Spring Concert. The songs varied from Negro spirituals to to "Hello Dolly" and "Charade," two famous popular tunes, to sentimental old favorites such as "Greensleeves" and "My Funny Valentine."

We are proud to have such a talented group of girls as this.

Tri

OFFICERS

C. Cuttaia, secretary; S. Cuttaia, president; Mrs. Montgomery; J. Dornich, vice-president; L. Goring, treasurer.

Since 1929 the Tri-Y has achieved its goal by uniting Sophomore, Junior, and Senior girls in a spirit of fellowship and service. Because of its affiliation with the Passaic Y.W.C.A., the annual Candlelight Service begins the year's activities. At this service the girls pledge to follow a pattern of high ideals.

The club holds many activities throughout the year. Among these are the donations of a Thanksgiving Basket to a needy family, assistance in the annual Cerebral Palsy Drive, a Christmas party, and a New York City Theatre Party.

With a splash of lovely colors, their annual semi-formal dance, "Flower Fantasy" was a night of enchanted melody and enjoyment. This event is a traditional one at East Rutherford High School because it is the only semi-formal affair to which the girls may invite their escorts. The dance is held in the auditorium and music is provided by a live band. The dance combined with the service activities to fulfill the goal of the club.

Trause, president; W. Edelbach, E. Dodski.

This organization, in co-operation with its advisor, Mrs. Blanchard, is a very active organization for all students interested in art. Members view color slides at their meetings and then report on the various types of art illustrated in them. These slides consist of paintings, sculpture, and architectural landmarks created by some of the foremost masters in the world. The club members continually add to this fine collection of art.

An added, and surely welcome feature this year was the student art teacher, Miss Bodo, who gave interesting lectures at some of the meetings and showed the students samples of her own work.

The ever-active members of this club have also produced much extra-curricular artwork. They were responsible for making the hundreds of maroon-and-grey tags worn by the student body at the World's Fair and also for the Christmas murals which were used in the grammar schools for their Christmas shows and at the annual Board of Education banquet.

The club constantly strives for perfection in all its work and daily comes closer to achieving this goal.

Teenage Club

The Teenage Club, whose membership is open to Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior girls, is under the capable direction of Miss Goehs. The girls learn to work together and develop a better understanding for fellow classmates. Through discussions, problems are talked over and the girls are exposed to ways of meeting every day problems. Also, the girls made toys for orphans as a service project.

The members learned to work and have fun together by selling cards and being hostesses at a school dance. The officers are: President, Betty Ann Panella; Vice-President, Joan Belbruno; Treasurer, Donna Syvester; and Secretary, Rita Johnson.

The curtain opens slowly . . . the lights go on . . . the heart beats wildly in nervous excitement. This is an experience no-one can aptly describe, but members of the Dramatics Club are given a chance to feel it for themselves.

Acting on stage, working on scenery, and prompting behind the scenes are all an intricate part of the Dramatics Club. Where else can one find what theatrical talents are present but through experience? The members are given this chance to measure their talents and show them off to their fellow students.

Under the able direction of Mr. Williams, the Dramatics Club explored all facets of the theater and gave all a chance to perform on the stage.

Perhaps not the largest, but by far the most intellectual of the East Rutherford High School clubs, is the newly organized Chess Club. Much of this year's success is due to the enthusiastic support of its advisor, Miss Sudovar.

Their meetings allow the members to sharpen their skills in successfully defeating their opponents. Not only do they master the fascinating game of chess, but they also develop the practice of good sportsmanship.

Fencing Club

Speed, agility, and grace are the desired qualities for a winning fencer. The fencing program at East Rutherford, although small, is a well organized one which instills in its participants the proper attitudes for competition. Mr. Cassilli, our capable fencing instructor, stresses perfection in the basic methods. The purpose of the program is not to produce Olympic champions, but rather to develop the elementary foundations for more advanced work in later years.

J.V. Cheerleaders

V. Sesselman; B. Panella; C. Farina, captain; G. Mellendorf; L. Cammarata, co-captain; K. Meyers, D. Wester.

"Team Beat . . ." was the mighty cry heard throughout East Rutherford High School this past year. The cry was made by a whirlwind of seven cute, vivacious, sophomore girls, our J. V. Cheerleaders.

Practicing in any nook or cranny available to them, the J. V. squad prepared eagerly to lend their cheers, smile, and abundant school spirit to the football and basketball games of good old E. R. H. S.

The hoards of new cheers invented by this unique squad were quickly picked up at J. V. and varsity games.

Under the guidance of their capable advisor, Miss Mezzadri, and faithful captain, Carol Farina, the squad cheered the teams with vitality and loyalty.

Although their reign as J. V. cheerleaders has ended these seven girls hope to complete their dreams by becoming Varsity Cheerleaders.

Varsity Cheerleaders

What are cheerleaders made of? Sugar 'n spice certainly, but also precision, grace, and inexhaustible energy.

Week after week, our girls are out there cheering for pep rallies, assemblies, football and basketball games. Behind those smiling faces and snappy uniforms are long hours of practice, practice, and still more practice. Their persistence for perfection resulted in the award of second place in the annual cheerleading competition held at North Arlington High School last year. It is their hope to improve their record this year, and if their performance is anything like we've seen so far, they most definitely will!

As long as there are cheerleaders in East Rutherford High School, the sound of "Let's go, Wildcats" will never cease.

Standing: Mr. Sachais, K. Serpa, L. Quinn, M. Hudak, N. Bastian, A. Ferrara, C. Swift, L. Carparelli. Kneeling: J. Berckman, B. Wintjen, E. Parker.

Under Mr. Sachais' capable direction, the Wildcat Marching Band gave many fine performances this year. With snappy new cardinal red uniforms and intricate formations correlated with the series of songs being played, the band is a source of pride for every ERHS student. It heightens the spirit of every football fan during the game and provides excitement and entertainment marching to and from Riggin Field. Without its musical accompaniment at the Bon Fire, pep rallies, and assemblies, the student enthusiasm and spirit for the "Maroon and Grey" would have been considerably lower.

Not to be forgotten was its excellent exhibition at the annual Herald-News Band Festival at the Clifton High School Stadium which called for rigorous practice and planning. "The Nutcracker Suite," the medley which was played, resulted in well deserved applause.

"Present arms!" With this command, the color guard goes into action. The flag of the United States is snappily transported to a prominent position; the gunbearers and guards stand at attention; the band plays our national anthem. After the Star Spangled Banner is played, the girls resume their former position and march proudly off the field. The reason for their pride is that they have been given the responsibility of guarding their nation's and their school's flags.

Eight girls comprise this select unit — eight girls chosen for their skill in marching and handling a gun, and for their scholastic ability. A position on the color guard is one to be proud of; theirs is a job respected in both the school and the community.

It's a bright fall Saturday afternoon at an East Rutherford football game, and halftime has just been called. All eyes turn to the brilliant assemblage at the far end of the field. After a keen shrill of a whistle and a high kickoff, the majorettes begin to march down the field with the band. Their batons glint in the sunlight as they proudly march into formations and execute precise twirling routines.

Of course, football games are not the only events in which the majorettes participate. They display their talents at pep rallies, and also march in various local parades, including the East Rutherford Firemen's Parade, and several Memorial Day parades.

In addition, the majorettes appear in the annual Herald News Band Festival. This year, despite unfavorable weather conditions, they performed "The Magic Nutcracker." The performance won an enthusiastic round of applause, and was a night to remember for all participants.

Many long hours of practice were invested to achieve the final goal — a skilled presentation.

As the halftime of every football game rolled around, this year's high-spirited, energetic group of tumblers could be seen anxiously lining up in front of the band, forming one of their well-known marching formations. Once on the field, they exhibited their strikingly precise skills.

What could give more spirit to a parade than the perfectly performed flips and cartwheels of this admired squad? The tumblers of ERHS can be quickly spotted livening up an otherwise dull moment, along with their cute, acrobatically inclined mascot, Judy Schanel.

This is the group that really "wowed" the officials and reporters at the 1964 Herald-News Band Festival, and received a write-up equal to that of the band itself.

The tumblers, with their symmetrical routines and agile bodies, are a real asset to the high school. But as the old saying goes: "Nothing comes easily." This is especially true of this group. To master these acrobatic skills takes many hours of work every week. It is very difficult indeed to find a harder-working or more dedicated group of girls than the Tumblers.

Football '64

TRADITION is the key word of this year's East Rutherford Wildcat football team. Winning against immeasurable odds has become the rule instead of the exception at Riggen Field. The boys along with the coaches feel that this is due to the fine teams of the past that have proven that nothing is impossible.

In no less than five games this year, the Wildcats were heavy underdogs to the larger schools. Four of these games were either won or tied. However, all was not "peaches and cream." Our losses to Passaic, Hoboken, and Clifton are all moments we would rather forget. Our tie with Garfield proved again the fighting spirit of East Rutherford boys. The best moments were always the victories: Weehawken, East Paterson, Paterson Central, and Paterson Eastside. The most exciting game was on Turkey Day. The tradition of the East Rutherford-Lyndhurst game being the finest game in the area was not to be argued. The single touchdown, made in the second quarter, was the only score of a tremendous game.

The boys realize that they owe their greatest debt to the coaches, the fine men who spend much more than they should dedicating themselves to the 35 players who wear the maroon and grey. It is through the efforts of Coach Jones, Coach Subda, Coach Paul, and Coach Sinofsky, that the East Rutherford spirit and tradition are instilled in every boy, making a winning team.

Basketball '64-'65

This year East Rutherford basketball has reached heights achieved by few Wildcat court teams. Coach Vitale, with the assistance of Coach Stolarz, has shown the boys the way to win. East Rutherford, this year, has become a contender in the tough P.V.C.

This was not accomplished without a great deal of hard work, desire, and planning. Long hours of practice paid off in wins. An added reward was an invitation to the New Jersey Interscholastic Athletic Association Basketball Tournament against Group One competition. As a result of their fine play, the team was awarded the Group I, Section 1 State Championship.

Our fighting Wildcats surely can boast of their gains this year, and their efforts have earned them distinction.

The E.R.H.S. athletic program, one of our many varied activities, is directed by this spirited organization. Some of its many duties are selling tickets, buying uniforms and equipment, and providing letters and trophies. The Athletic Association also administers a code of ethics for spectators and players.

This twelve member group, along with their advisors, controls and maintains the finances of the athletic program, and enables the program to run smoothly and efficiently.

The latest addition to the diversified athletic program at East Rutherford is the Cross Country team. Under the excellent leadership of Coach Williams, the team has served notice that the Wildcats will not be intimidated. The boys have dedicated themselves to work through the frigid cold and balmy warmth of the autumn weather. The fulfillment of this dedication is shown by one of our freshman taking 14th place in the P.V.C. Championship meet. With more experience and time, the Cross Country team will become one of the top contenders in the area.

Sitting: R. Osowiecky, R. Schiano, G. Schanel, D. Ravettine, G. Latz, G. Schneckenberg.

Swimming '65

"Competition Breeds Champions" is the motto of the swimming Wildcats. Only the largest schools in northern New Jersey have their own pools and teams, and so E.R.H.S. was at a disadvantage. Unfortunately, the Wildcats lacked enough boys to make a winning team this year, but they were successful in other areas. Each of the boys exhibited a fighting spirit. Experience was gained, which can be carried on to college competition. The East Rutherford tradition of 'never-say-die' was shown by the deep courage and maturity of the boys.

The future looks bright with four of the five letter men returning and more meets being added to the schedule.

All of E.R.H.S. can be proud of the efforts of the East Rutherford Swimming Team.

Bob, Best of luck in the future. Roach

Track '65

The supreme efforts of individuals make a winning track team. Track is a sport in which there are different events which enable boys of different abilities to excell. This year's track team is strong with experience. Among our members are last year's PVC high jump champion, a fine quarter-miler, an experienced half-miler, and a promising miler.

Under the capable leadership of Coach Jones, the track team is promising to be one of East Rutherford's finest.

Baseball

When spring is in the air, thoughts turn to the great outdoors and in turn to baseball. Success is the word for East Rutherford baseball in the past few years. In two years the Wildcats have captured first and second place in the Passaic Valley Conference. This year the team hopes to uphold this tradition. Under its mentor, Coach John Subda, the team is developing professional qualities such as quick relays.

Good pitching, batting and fielding are attributes which take long hours of practice, and produce a winning team. The Wildcat nine are willing to devote this time to the sport. The boys can be proud of their efforts and achievements.

In Memoriam

DOCTOR FREDERICK L. MULLER

Dr. Muller has given his time and talents as the official school doctor since 1951. During the past fourteen years he has supervised the required periodical school examinations of the student body and the faculty, and administered special health programs. As a resident of Carlstadt, much of his valuable time was given to the Presbyterian Church and the local affairs of that town.

Because of his true dedication to each individual, Doctor Muller will long be remembered for his good nature, quiet manner, and sincere attitude. In spite of his death, his many contributions remain with us as a memorial.
